The junior class par- ents will host the after- prom at Fairlawn Local School from midnight to 3 a.m. Mark Adams will be the disc jockey for the prom.

Senior court members are Trey Everett, son of Tim and Jackie Everett;

Ryan Elliott, son of David and Theresa Elliott; Cole Cummings, son of Tim and the late Yvonne Cummings; Anthony Gillem, son of Anthony and Carla Gillem; Olivia Cummings, daughter of Tim and the late Yvonne Cummings; Samantha Forman, daughter of Charles and Tracy Forman; Haley Slonkosky, daughter of Mike Slonkosky and Lori Slonkosky; and Tyler Matthews, daughter of Chad Matthews.

Financial talks at Dorothy Love

Dorothy Love Retirement Community will host two financial seminars featuring DiAnne Karas, an Edward Jones financial advisor, and Tom Barry, an Ohio Presbyterian Retirement Services representative, this month.

On April 30, the seminar, "Family Matters in Long-Term Care," will address how long-term care insurance can play a role in helping to preserve assets, the common funding options to provide long-term care, as well as how to take control of where and how to receive long-term care services.

At each seminar, there will also be a short presentation by Barry about charitable giving and financial planning.

Seating is limited, so reservations are required by calling 497-6542.

The seminars are free, open to the public and begin at 6 p.m. in the Oak Tree Dining Room on the Dorothy Love campus with a complimentary dinner. The first, on April 23, will be "Tax-Free Investing." This seminar will cover how certain investments can deliver tax-free income.

Balance therapy program available

VERSAILLES — The Rehab Clinic at Versailles Health Care Center has announced a therapy program for those suffering from balance disorders.

Vestibular rehabilitation therapy (VRT) is designed to address balance, dizziness, and overall fitness of the patient. Two therapists at Versailles Health Care Center have been specially trained to address these disorders.

VRT has been demonstrated to be a highly effective treatment for most individuals with vestibular or central balance system disorders. It is an exercise-based program designed to promote central nervous compensation for inner ear deficits.

When the vestibular organs are damaged by disease or injury, the brain can no longer rely on them for accurate information about the equilibrium and motion, often resulting in dizziness, vertigo, balance problems, and other symptoms.

Many people are able to recover from these symptoms on their own after a few weeks of normal activity because the brain has adapted with a process called vestibular compensation.

However, if the vestibular compensation process is not successful, a person's ability to maintain posture and coordinate balance may become overly dependent on input from the eyes and muscles and joints. In addition, the person may develop new patterns of head and body movement in an attempt to avoid dizziness and nausea.

These strategies can make vestibular compensation even more difficult, worsening symptoms and often causing headache, muscle tension, and fatigue.

Auxiliary offers health grants

The Wilson Memorial Hospital Auxiliary is accepting applications for its health career scholarship program.

The Wilson Auxiliary has been awarding scholarships since 1979. Each year, scholarships are given to recipients who are pursuing careers in the medical field.

This year, three, $500 scholarships will be awarded. Graduating high school seniors as well as current college students are encouraged to apply.

"We're interested in individuals planning to major in or who are currently pursuing studies in healthcare-related fields, such as nursing, physical therapy, respiratory therapy, careers in radiology or any other type of medical field," said Marianne Helmlinger, scholarship committee chairwoman. "Graduating seniors of any high school in Shelby County, as well as college students in the county who are currently enrolled in a healthcare field of study are eligible to apply."

Applications are available at the front desk in Wilson Memorial Hospital's main lobby or online at www.wilsonhospital.com.

Those interested must submit their applications before June 1.

For more information about Wilson Memorial Hospital Auxiliary scholarship program, call 498-5390.
